Name: Rui Qiu

My family moved from downtown into this suburban house when I was about 6, which I always appreciate because I had a lot more space to explore as a kid. Many memories have been created in the garden. The garden was always beautiful and good-smelling even in the winter thanks to the professional care from my Mom. There are a variety of vegetation-Jasmine, persimmon tree, Pipa tree, fig tree, orchid, corn poppy, and many more that I couldn't name. However, the plants are certainly not an attraction for kids. My friends and I spent a lot of time sliding down the marble stone by the front door. We slid down and took the 6 steps to get to the top again. We could play on it the whole afternoon nonstop. As a kid, I just took all this beauty in the garden for granted. When I trace back to my childhood and adolescence, the garden actually takes a great part of my memory.

The second object is the rocking chair in my bedroom. Dark brown, looks like an antique. I enjoyed reading in it.

The third thing is playstation4. I did play a lot of games during my adolescence.
